

EVANGELIST BROWN DECLARED DANCING RUINS YOUNG GIRLS

In Address To Women Only He Scores Gambling, Impurity
and Intemperance

BALLROOM LAST STEP ON HIGHWAY TO RUIN

Women in Society Who Neglect
Their Duties Are 'The Devil's
Decoys'

Central Union Church was filled to capacity when Evangelist Brown yesterday afternoon delivered his message, "The Devil's Decoys," for the sake of women only. It was the largest audience that has attended the meetings to date.

Every seat in the church was occupied and there were only three men in the assembly. Evangelist Brown, a tall, slender, and an usher. Beginning the service, Mr. Curry sang the old song "Nobody Knows But Mother." He was in good voice and gave the number of the hymn. Then for an hour Brown addressed the women, first calling for a show of hands to ascertain the percent of those present who were otherwise than those who were wives and those who were yet claimed no man by ties stronger than brother or sweetheart.

The three greatest evils, said he, are gambling, impurity and intemperance. He spoke at length on each, delivering his sermon with considerable power. His text was the third verse of the 1st Psalm, "Surely He will deliver me from the snare of the evil doer."

Adverse Social Evil
Perhaps his strongest and most telling points were delivered at the social evil, the subject which perhaps drew the audience. On this subject he said:

"Statistics tell us that there are nearly 600,000 sold mothers in the United States and more than a million girls who are making merchandise of their bodies. Knowing where such a life leads, why do girls get started on such a road? Statistics say that more than 350,000 of the 600,000 fallen women attribute their downfall to the dance. Not one of a thousand of the fallen women went to the down town ballrooms to learn her first step."

"Somewhere higher up they start, and the ballroom is the last step on the road of the moral leper. The more beautiful a girl, the greater her temptation. Therefore there is some compensation in not being competent to obtain first prize in a beauty show."

Mothers should teach their girls the dangers of the dance; that the hours are bad, the positions bad, the dress bad. Persons today applaud dances which ten years ago would have landed them in jail.

Girls Not Naturally Bad
"Most persons have the idea that the girls who lead immoral lives are naturally bad and come from bad environments, but statistics show that the majority not only are beautiful but college bred."

"A girl who has been taught to avoid dancing and cannot dance a step will not go to a dance hall to learn, but if the dance of a friend she is urged to try, she will do so. Then, later on, she goes to the down town ballroom. Her name becomes implicated in a scandal, and then often she continues on the downward road. Perhaps she will not be found out and eventually marry; I can conceive nothing worse than to feel that if our loved ones knew all about us they would put us out of their minds."

Church women often set the example which leads to the downfall of girls and I believe at the Judgment Bar of God these women who hold to the church yet persist in living a worldly life will be responsible for the downfall of many boys and girls. They were the decoys who started these young people off."

Mary Told By Banker
The speaker cited the instance of a banker who came to him at one of his meetings after he had delivered a sermon on gambling and told him the following story:

"This banker had kept in his employ one of the most promising young men in town. One day a friend came to the employer and informed him that his clerk had been gambling. The banker refused to believe it, but on investigation he found it true. He gave the young man his choice, either to sign or swear never to touch a card again. He gave him a few days to decide and at the end of that time the young man took his oath to forsake the gambling table."

Two years later this young man was in the home of a society woman and a friend, where card playing was going on. The woman insisted that he complete a group at a table. He tried to get off, saying he had not touched a card for two years. She would take a refusal, so he sat down, thinking he would play until someone else could get in."

Young Woman Devil's Decoy
However, as soon as he heard the tap of the cards, he became seized with the gambling fever, and when he left the room he proceeded to a gambling table where he played all night. His money was soon gone, not only that he had gambled every penny of his own, but was using the bank's money. He discharged him, and in two years' time that young man died from dissipation."

Mr. Brown stated that although the society women were quite unconscious of it, they were the devil's decoy in this instance.

Work has been resumed in Waipio country, which supplies some of the rock for the Hilo breakwater.

REUTERDAHL SAYS U. S. MOLLY COULD

Famous Artist and War Critic
Condemns America's Attitude
On War

Many Honoluluans who have visited the cruiser Maryland during her frequent visits here and have been privileged to go below decks into the wardroom of the vessel will remember the stirring painting of one of our early naval fights which occupies the place of honor on the trophy hung walls of this heart of the ship. This painting is but one of a score which occupy similar places of honor on other craft of our navy and is the product of the brain and brush of our greatest marine painter, Henry Reuterdahl.

Mr. Reuterdahl first came into prominence as a mural artist by the series of pictures which he executed during the world-encompassing voyage of the battleship fleet some years ago while a welcome passenger on the flagship. From merely an artist truthfully depicting scenes pictures, Mr. Reuterdahl has come to be our leading civilian authority and critic on naval matters and his opinion of the cause of preparedness has led to the writing of authoritative articles which have appeared in several prominent magazines, notably Everybody.

The American artist is as welcome a visitor in foreign navies as in our own and his comparisons of conditions in European fleets and our own are authoritative and have enabled him to approach his subject with knowledge and vision concerning the neglect of our navy. His painstaking examination of facts and relentless expressions of opinion as to our naval deficiencies have now been extended to our military necessities and in an article in the Metropolitan Magazine for December entitled "Arm or Surrender?" he makes some startling assertions regarding the senseless condition of the nation from a military point of view.

He opens with this sharp arraignment of our patriotism—or lack of it:

"Our patriotism is waning and drifting away on the ebb tide of indifference, and as a nation our manhood is in the decline. National conscience we have not. No longer can an American hold his head up abroad. Our place in the world is that of a money bag. In Germany we are laughed at, despised as spineless weaklings; our money alone is feared. England thinks we are cowards, and America life a commodity which can be paid for in cash. The French shrug their shoulders."

"In Mexico, Arizona," he says, "the right arm of the government guards not the lives of the inhabitants. Barriers of bayonets before the windows keep Mexican bullets from killing them in their sleep; in the daytime, they look out and trust to luck."

Invasion by European power Mr. Reuterdahl says is ridiculously easy. "Right before our very eyes our navy and army have deteriorated. So far, no one cares. It has been demonstrated and proved beyond argument that the American navy is not strong enough to maintain the command of the sea and uphold the Monroe doctrine. With the American fleet swept off the sea, the enemy invasion of our soil becomes but a matter of steamer schedules. This has twice been done in the war games of our fleet."

"The army cannot defend all the forts," he continues. "It has no automobiles to transport all its baggage; its shoes are for the parade ground and will wear out under the most marching; it has nineteen motor ambulances for its wounded. Its supply system can not stand the strain of war, but will break down as it did during the Spanish war. It is without ammunition trains, armored automobiles, armored railroad trains, heavy motors for field work, has ammunition but for a couple of days' battle and less than one hour's supply for coast defense guns and has not sufficient field artillery. The mobile army of the United States is but a little larger than twice the New York police force, and its reserve numbers some sixteen men. It masters ten aeroplanes, all of which cannot fly."

Practically all the great rules of coast defense are from the desks of the Ordnance Department, and their disappearing carriages are the invention of the present chief of ordnance. Many are obsolete and the carriages of the heavy guns have to be remodeled. They permit only a limited degree of elevation and through faulty design food guns are rendered inferior in range to those of the enemy. The forward of forethought the bureau placed his handicap on every large calibered, firing gun of our coast defense from Maine to California. The thieves are now useless against the latest sophisticated thoughts until this handicap is removed."

The inefficiency settled upon the army by Congress and the army's preparedness for war is visualized by the hopeless and pathetic state of its aviation corps. America is the land of the aeroplane. Here it was born, but the army has now but ten machines—one fell recently into the sea and killed its aviator. That these machines cannot fly cannot be the fault of Congress. Congress has not given the army the money to buy as many as it needs. It has been almost as heavy as in the flying corps of the great armies now engaged in war."

The American army is trained to travel on a pillow. Soldiers must go to maneuvers in a tourist sleeper, of fairs in Pullmans. At least that is our peace method. To the Texas maneuvers a regiment was ordered from Indianapolis. It could have pulled out in six hours, reaching its destination in thirty, traveling in box cars as in France or Germany. But this regiment had to wait three days for tourist sleepers. The orders to move came in February; not until four months later did the force reach its maximum strength, without a regiment of light artillery, ambulances, field hospitals, engineers, and signal force. No ammunition nor adequate supply of trains or transports existed and these regi-

FOREFATHERS' DAY TO BE CELEBRATED

Sons and Daughters of American Revolution Will Hold a Joint Banquet

At the meeting of the officers and board of managers of the Sons of the American Revolution the question of the banquet for Forefathers' Day was debated and it was decided that it should be held at the University club on the evening of the twenty-first instant. The Sons and Daughters of the American Revolution are uniting for the occasion and it will be a very large affair, provision being made for two hundred guests. The speakers of the evening will be Governor Pinkham, Judge Sanford B. Dole, Capt. Paul B. Malone, Second Infantry U. S. A., James A. Wilder and Prof. W. A. Bryan. The joint committee having the affair in charge are president S. D. Barnes, W. A. Bryan and G. W. R. King for the Sons; and Mrs. W. A. Bryan, regent; Miss Carolyn Church and Miss Minnie Armstrong for the Daughters.

The conditions of the prize contest have been changed and now there are two classes of contestants, those who at present are attending high school and any person under twenty-two years of age. Circulars giving full information for intending contestants are ready for distribution and may be had on application to Dr. S. D. Barnes at his office, or Paul Steel at the Y. M. C. A. Notices of the contest will be sent out to all teachers by the Bulletin of Education in a few days. Those who will judge the essays have been selected and are Judge W. L. Whitney, Inspector-General of Schools, George S. Raymond and Mrs. Wade Warren Thayer.

The patriotic exercises under the auspices of the Sons and Daughters of the American Revolution on Washington's Birthday, will be held at the Opera House on that day and the speaker selected for the occasion is Rev. L. M. Loofbourrow. The exercises probably will take place in the morning directly after the parade.

CITIZENSHIP EDUCATION COMMITTEE HAS SESSION

The citizenship education committee held its monthly meeting at the University Club to hear reports of work accomplished and to plan for new lines of work. The committee, which has as its object the education of all citizens, organized some months ago under the direction of the Y. M. C. A. and is composed of W. F. Frear, John Waterhouse, W. P. Farrington, J. P. Cooke, A. F. Judd, Judge C. F. Clemens, C. C. Atherton and Lloyd R. Killam.

It was decided by the committee to have a pamphlet on "The Value of a Vote" reprinted and sent out to all young voters on this island. The question of having free moving picture shows for the public school children of the upper grades was discussed. The matter will be taken up with the authorities and a special committee appointed to arrange for the program.

A list of industrial and educational pictures has been secured from the bureau of commercial economics and these will be shown to as large a number of people as possible.

The report of Paul Steel, the educational secretary of the committee, was read and discussed.

NINTH CIRCUIT COURT OF APPEALS SUSTAINS CLEMONS

A decision rendered by the ninth circuit court of appeal in San Francisco in the old S. S. Orteric immigrant case sustains Federal Judge Clemons who, several years ago, fought against Capt. James P. Findlay of the Orteric, and T. Clive Davies and W. W. Baird, Londoners, for $2000.

The report of Paul Steel, the educational secretary of the committee, was read and discussed.

ments at the Texas camp never reached proper war strength. "What are you going to do about it?" To which I answer: Trust the army, chuck politics sky high, again get the war on. In Congress, kill the graft of the useless army posts, do away with the bureau system, and let the fighting army run its own show, according to the lines laid down by General Staff. They are trained for it. Congress is not. Establish a Council of National Defense so that the army may be represented on the floor of Congress and the commands and opinions of the efficient soldiers may be heard throughout the land. Give a budget system that exists in every country where defense means something.

Military training must be general. It is no hardship to the youth of Switzerland and Australia. Why should it be to ours? On the other hand it will make a better man of him, teach obedience, strengthen his undisciplined character, and there will be less use for shams and less need for reformatories. The day of the small, highly trained army is past. A small army is a useless expense—it will not prevent attack. War demands every unit of a nation—even down to the humblest baker. The fighting line is but the edge of the knife; the steel behind it is represented by the resources of the nation expended with the fullest unity."

HAWAIIANS ROUT SEALED IN FIGHT

Assault On Native At Beach
Leads To Desperate Midnight Melee

At an early hour yesterday morning a fight occurred in Kalaheua avenue, opposite the entrance to the Seaside Hotel, between a number of Hawaiians and firemen from the steamer Great Northern, and several Hawaiians, prominent among whom were well known members of the Hui Nalu. The latter triumphed, after a short but furious encounter, and the sailors were chased up the road toward town.

The trouble started shortly after eleven o'clock in the bar of the Seaside Hotel, where some of the Great Northern men went for the purpose of getting a drink.

At the bar, drinking peacefully, was an elderly Hawaiian man. The sailors took umbrage at his presence and told the bartender to desert from serving him. This the latter refused to do, stating that he was behaving himself and that as long as he did so he could have what he wanted.

This attitude on the part of the native riled the sailors, who followed the man out of the bar into the grounds, where a couple of them proceeded to give him an artistic beating.

As soon as the Hawaiian could get to his feet he hastened to Heine's Tavern, and the Moana Hotel, where the Hui Nalu boys are wont to congregate at a Saturday evening, and to all whom he met he related his tale of woe.

In a short time a dozen sturdy Hawaiian youths, including Duke Kahanamoku Jr., Hiram (Ruck) Kabele, "Tough Bill" Keawemahi, Steam-boat "Bill" Keawemahi, and "Big Charlie" had gathered together and were soon on the way to the entrance to the Seaside Hotel.

The Seaside closed at midnight and the Hawaiians waited on the road for the Great Northern men to come out, and as soon as they did so rushed them and after a lively battle succeeded in routing the enemy.

Claudio H. McBryde is said to have been mixed up in the fight and to have received a stiff punch in the jaw. Frank Cleghorn also got in the way of someone's fist and was taken to the hospital in a semi-conscious condition. He was found to be only slightly damaged, however, and was sent home yesterday morning.

It was rumored last night that a number of Great Northern men had gone out to the beach with the avowed intention of joining up the boys who got the best of them in the first encounter.

However, everything was quiet at Waikiki, and none of the canoe and swimming boys had been seen round their usual haunts all the evening.

WEATHER LAST WEEK GENERALLY IMPROVED

Temperature Cool and Pleasant and Sunshine Prominent

At the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, in Honolulu, the temperature for the week ended December 4 was generally cool and pleasant. The mean (74°) was the same as last week. The highest temperature recorded on the fourth being 74.4°. Mean maximum for the week was 78.4° and the mean minimum was 69.7°. The temperature for the week was 7.7° above the normal.

Showers occurred on the twenty-eighth of November and on the second, third and fourth of the present month, giving a total of 2.3 inch for the week. This is 7.4 inches less than the average amount of 9.7 inches less than fell during the previous week.

The relative humidity ranged from 71 per cent on the first to 84 per cent on the second. The mean for the week was 76.3 or 9 per cent greater than last week.

The sunshine was more prominent last week than the previous week, last week having two cloudy, three partly cloudy and two clear days.

The prevailing wind direction was from the northeast with an average velocity of 6.9 miles an hour.

The barometer was slightly higher than the previous week, having an average of 30.04 inches.

WAIHOLE TUNNEL NOT YET THROUGH MOUNTAIN

Waiahole tunnel will be through the mountains by Wednesday of this week, or Thursday at the latest if everything goes right.

On Saturday the two gangs of drillers in the big waterway under the mountains were within forty feet of each other and the sounds of the tools could be heard plainly through the rock partition which separated the men. To make the work more sure one gang has been laid off and work is now proceeding from one side of the tunnel only.

Jorgen Jorgensen, the engineer in charge of the work, is taking no chances of anything going wrong and so is going ahead with caution for the balance of the short time it will take to make a clear passageway from the windward to the leeward side of the island through the Koolau range.

SPORTS RAWLINS AWAITS NEXT MAIL BOAT

Anxiously Looking For Replies To Invitation From Raithel, Langer
And Miss Cowells

Next Tuesday's mail will bring either a great deal of cheer or a great deal of worry to William T. Rawlins who is to handle the Mid-Pacific Carnival swimming meet next February. That mail is expected to bring a final word from Arthur Raithel of the Illinois Athletic Club, Lady Langer of the University of California and Los Angeles Athletic Club and Miss Frances Cowells as to whether they will compete in the meet. Rawlins has little doubt but what the stars will come, still he is anxious to have their final word so that he can get busy and begin mapping out his program.

Should the unforeseen happen and any of the three be unable to make the trip, Rawlins will immediately fill the place and says he has other crackjacks in mind.

"It is up to me to give the swimming followers a card worth while and this is exactly what I aim to do. If for some reason, Raithel, Langer and Miss Cowells can not come, I shall fill their places with other stars. I am confident all three will come and take part in our meet and I look for exhibitions of swimming never before seen here."

While Rawlins is awaiting word from the mainlanders, he has not been idle and already has a partial program arranged that would prove interesting even if the stars did not come. One part of this program is to be a relay race in which only men in the service, navy, regular army and National Guard will compete and already Rawlins has assurance of five teams entering.

LOCAL HORSEMEN WILL GO TO MAUI

Local horsemen, as well as followers of the racing game, are making active preparations to invade the Valley Isle New Year's Day for the big race meet at Spreckels Park, Kahului, Eleon Low, who is showing a lively interest in the meet, is arranging some sort of an excursion and it is expected that between 100 and 150 Honoluluans will take advantage of the rates to be offered.

At Waikuku and the vicinity everything is going smoothly toward pulling off the meet and all indications point to the program being one of the best, if not the best ever offered the public. In the language of the stable boy, a raft of horses are being prepped for the meet and some exciting sport is promised. Several of the best runners and trotters of the islands are to compete. In the running events there will be such well known speed burners as Harvester, Sea Bolt, Francis B. Senator, B. Silla, Advance Guard, Copra, Dutch Parrott, Wallaby, Adonis, Athlete, Young Lady, Miss Bryan and Indigo.

In the trotting and pacing events it is expected that Denervo, Maui Boy, Harold D., Welcome Boy and El Oro will face the starter.

Altogether there are seventeen events on the program, including bicycle races, fat men's races, roping contests and the like. One of the features will be a roping contest between Eben Low and Angus McPhee, both having lost an arm. Another feature will be the Maui Hotel Cup race, at a mile and one-half mile.

The meet will open at nine o'clock in the morning and continue all day.

LARRY BOYLE LEADS NATIONAL LEAGUERS

But five men in the National League were able to hang up batting averages of .300 or better during the 1915 campaign. Larry Doyle tops the list at .320 in 150 games. Then comes Luderus of Philadelphia at .315, Griffith of Cincinnati and Hinchman of Pittsburgh each batted .307 while Daubert of Brooklyn was fifth with .301. Morike of the Giants was just out of the class with .299.

Cravath who scored the most runs 89, and made twenty-four home runs hit for .285 and the great Hans Wagner batted .274.

WEST POINT ATHLETE WOUNDS FAIR DAMSEL

SCHOFIELD BARRACKS, December.—The newspaper reports from the mainland that Lieutenant Lewis A. Merrilat, a graduate of the Military Academy last June and for the last four years West Point's greatest baseball and football star, has been sued for breach of promise of marriage, has occasioned much merriment among his many friends here. Merrilat for the past few years has been a real "hero" at the Academy and was "rushed" by more "femmes" than usually fall to the lot of popular cadet but remembering certain retiring traits and a painful bashfulness of Merrilat's, his present predicament is the cause for much mirth.

A suit for $20,000 has been entered in the Chicago courts against the football star by Miss Helen Van Nest of Wooster, Ohio who alleges that despite his prior engagement to marry her, Merrilat married a Miss Wynne last June soon after his graduation.
